Intellicheck Mobilisa, Inc. To Present Defense ID™ at the Force Protection Equipment Demonstration VII (FPED)

Stafford, VA, May 19-21, 2009

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash. – May 18, 2009: Intellicheck Mobilisa, Inc. (NYSE Amex:IDN), a global leader in access control and wireless security systems, will be exhibiting its Defense ID™ advanced access control system at the Force Protection Equipment Demonstration VII (FPED), in Stafford, Virginia on May 19 through 21, 2009. The Intellicheck Mobilisa booth is located in tent 14-I with demonstration times between the hours of 10:00 am and 4:30 pm on the three show dates.

In response to acts of terrorism aimed at Department of Defense (DoD) personnel throughout the world in 1996, the then Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff directed that a Force Protection Equipment Demonstration be conducted. The intent of the FPED is to demonstrate, to senior leaders and decision-makers in DoD, state-of-the-art and mature commercial off-the-shelf (COTS) force protection equipment that could serve as materiel solutions to force protection needs (www.fped7.org).

“We are very pleased to be exhibiting at FPED VII,” said Nelson Ludlow, PhD, CEO of Intellicheck Mobilisa. “This showcase allows us to demonstrate the capabilities of Defense ID to senior leaders and decision makers in the Department of Defense. With our recent U.S. Army and Navy ATOs we are confident that this product will be well received and are excited for the opportunity to make the presentation.”

Defense ID is an advanced access control system at use at dozens of military and federal secure facilities across the country. Military installations using Defense ID include Fort Belvoir in Virginia, Quantico Marine Corps Base in Virginia, Andrews AFB in Maryland and Bangor Submarine base in Washington State.
